1. General precautions to take after having received a vaccination

- (1) During the first 30 minutes after vaccination, you should make sure you can contact your doctor immediately, as sudden side effects may occur.
- (2) Please keep the injection site clean and avoid rubbing it when taking a bath. If you feel unwell after receiving the vaccine, do not exert yourself. Take measures such as refraining from bathing and observe your symptoms carefully.
- (3) On the day of vaccination, avoid strenuous exercise and excessive consumption of alcohol.

2. Potential side effects of the COVID-19 vaccine

Potential side effects include redness, swelling, or pain at the site of the injection, fever, chills, muscular and joint pain, headache, diarrhea, and general lethargy, but these usually go away within 2 to 3 days. Serious rare side effects include shock and anaphylaxis, and though extremely rare, cases of myocarditis, pericarditis, and Guillain–Barré syndrome (GBS) have been reported. If you experience symptoms that are concerning after receiving vaccination please consult with the doctor who administered the vaccine or your family doctor.
